Manufacturing is a key pillar of India's economy, currently contributing approximately 16-17 per cent of the country's GDP and providing employment to more than 27 million people. As India seeks to expand its economy from about $3.7 trillion to $30-35 trillion by 2047, the manufacturing sector is expected to play a crucial role, with its share in GDP projected to increase to at least 25 per cent.

To support this transformation, India has increasingly emphasised the development of integrated manufacturing hubs. These hubs are spatially concentrated industrial ecosystems that combine physical infrastructure, regulatory facilitation, shared facilities, and efficient connectivity. By enabling economies of scale, lowering transaction costs, and fostering long-term industrial activity, such hubs are intended to strengthen India's competitiveness within both domestic and global manufacturing networks.

MANUFACTURING HUBS IN A CHANGING GLOBAL CONTEXT

Global manufacturing is undergoing a significant transformation. The Economic Survey 2025–26 notes that industrial competitiveness is increasingly determined not only by low production costs but also by reliability, resilience, and strategic importance within global value chains. As manufacturing processes become more technology-driven and interconnected, the capacity to operate within stable and integrated industrial ecosystems has become a key factor in sustaining long-term competitiveness.

In this environment, countries that can provide reliable production ecosystems—supported by robust infrastructure, efficient logistics, skilled labour, and effective institutional coordination—are better positioned to attract and retain manufacturing activity. Integrated manufacturing hubs therefore play an important role in enhancing industrial resilience and strengthening a country's position in global production networks.

This transformation has been accompanied by a growing shift towards high-technology manufacturing and a greater emphasis on strategic relevance within Global Value Chains (GVCs). As production processes become more technology-intensive and interconnected, industrial competitiveness increasingly depends on preparedness, productivity, and the ability to scale efficiently. In this context, manufacturing hubs have emerged as important enablers of industrial growth. By providing integrated ecosystems with shared infrastructure, supply chain linkages, and efficient logistics networks, these hubs help firms achieve economies of scale, move towards higher value-added activities, and integrate more effectively into global production systems.

A Global Value Chain (GVC) refers to the sequence of activities involved in the production of a good or service, where value is added at different stages of the process and at least two of these stages take place across different countries. Participation in GVCs enables firms and economies to specialise in specific segments of production while benefiting from international trade and investment linkages.

INDIA'S INDUSTRIAL MANUFACTURING TRAJECTORY

India has adopted the approach of aligning its infrastructure strategy with its manufacturing ambitions by shifting from isolated project implementation to integrated, system-level planning. Rather than developing roads, ports, railways, and industrial facilities independently, recent initiatives have focused on creating interconnected infrastructure networks that support industrial ecosystems and manufacturing hubs. This approach improves logistics efficiency, reduces supply chain bottlenecks, and enhances connectivity between production centres, markets, and export gateways, making manufacturing operations more competitive and scalable.

Such coordinated planning has strengthened India's attractiveness as a manufacturing destination. Global investors increasingly view India as a preferred location for industrial investment, with the country ranked among the world's most sought-after manufacturing destinations. At the same time, the structure of manufacturing is evolving towards more technology-intensive activities. Medium and high-technology industries now account for 46.3 per cent of manufacturing value added, reflecting a gradual transition towards more sophisticated and higher-value industrial production.

INDIA'S MANUFACTURING HUB LANDSCAPE

India's manufacturing ecosystem has developed into a diverse network of industrial hubs tailored to different sectors, scales, and value-chain requirements. These include large integrated manufacturing parks, sector-specific industrial ecosystems, MSME clusters, and corridor-linked industrial nodes.

Large Integrated Manufacturing Hubs: Large manufacturing hubs are master-planned industrial zones that combine plug-and-play infrastructure, shared utilities, logistics facilities, and supplier networks. By bringing manufacturers and ancillary industries together, they promote economies of scale and faster project implementation.

The National Industrial Corridor Development Programme (NICDP) is developing industrial smart cities across major industrial corridors. Twenty industrial nodes have been approved across 13 states, with several already operational and others under development. These hubs are being built with multimodal connectivity and ready-to-use industrial infrastructure.

Similarly, the PM MITRA Park programme is establishing seven integrated textile parks that bring together manufacturing, processing, logistics, and common facilities within a single ecosystem, strengthening the textile value chain.

Sector-Specific Manufacturing Ecosystems: Certain industries require specialised infrastructure and ecosystem-based development. Sector-specific manufacturing hubs support complete value chains by integrating production facilities with testing, regulatory, logistics, and skilling infrastructure.

The Bulk Drug Park Scheme is creating three dedicated parks to lower production costs through shared infrastructure and common utilities. Semiconductor and electronics manufacturing ecosystems are being strengthened through initiatives such as the Semicon India Programme and ECMS 2.0, covering fabrication, assembly, packaging, and testing activities. In biotechnology, the Biopharma SHAKTI initiative aims to position India as a global biopharmaceutical manufacturing hub through targeted investments in innovation and production capacity.

MSME Manufacturing Clusters: Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) form a critical component of India's manufacturing ecosystem. They contribute significantly to manufacturing output, exports, and GDP, while also serving as a major source of employment.

With more than 7.4 crore enterprises spread across the country, MSMEs play a central role in regional manufacturing hubs, particularly in Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities where industrial clusters often emerge around local skills, supplier networks, and cost advantages.

Government initiatives such as the Micro and Small Enterprises—Cluster Development Programme (MSE-CDP) support infrastructure creation, common facility centres, and technology upgradation. Complementing these efforts, the India Industrial Land Bank and State Industrial Development Corporations facilitate industrial land availability and cluster development across the country.

Corridor-Linked Industrial Nodes: Alongside industrial parks and sector-specific hubs, India has also adopted a corridor-based approach to industrial development. These corridor-linked industrial nodes focus on integrating manufacturing hubs with transport and logistics networks, creating larger industrial ecosystems rather than isolated production centres. By combining industrial infrastructure with efficient freight movement and multimodal connectivity, they support industrial concentration and scale.

A key feature of this approach is the development of trunk infrastructure—the core infrastructure systems such as roads, power supply, water networks, drainage, and other essential utilities that support multiple industrial developments within a region. The provision of such shared infrastructure reduces costs, improves efficiency, and enables manufacturing hubs to operate more effectively.

Major industrial corridors, including the Delhi-Mumbai Industrial Corridor (DMIC), Chennai-Bengaluru Industrial Corridor (CBIC), Amritsar-Kolkata Industrial Corridor (AKIC), and Vizag-Chennai Industrial Corridor (VCIC), have been developed to strengthen connectivity between manufacturing centres, logistics networks, and markets. Through integrated regional planning, these corridors facilitate the growth of manufacturing hubs and industrial clusters while improving their integration with domestic and global value chains.

STATE CAPACITY AND ON-GROUND EXECUTION

The success of manufacturing hubs depends not only on infrastructure creation but also on effective implementation. State capacity in areas such as land aggregation, infrastructure provision, and regulatory clearances plays a critical role in determining industrial outcomes.

To strengthen coordination, the Government launched the PM Gati Shakti National Master Plan, which integrates infrastructure planning across ministries and states to improve connectivity, logistics, and project execution. Public capital expenditure has also increased significantly, providing the physical backbone needed for industrial parks, logistics networks, and manufacturing ecosystems.

Institutional initiatives such as the India Infrastructure Project Development Fund (IIPDF) and the National Infrastructure Enablement Index (NIEI) further support project preparation and improve implementation capacity.

The impact of these efforts is visible across states. Uttar Pradesh is developing a Defence Industrial Corridor, Tamil Nadu has expanded automobile and electronics manufacturing clusters, and Gujarat continues to strengthen port-linked industrial hubs. Similarly, industrial corridors such as the Delhi-Mumbai and Chennai-Bengaluru corridors demonstrate how coordinated Centre-State action can support the development of large-scale manufacturing eco-systems.

CONCLUSION

Manufacturing is expected to be a key driver of India's journey towards becoming a developed economy by 2047. Recent policy initiatives highlight the growing emphasis on manufacturing hubs, industrial corridors, and integrated infrastructure ecosystems as instruments for enhancing productivity, competitiveness, and employment generation.

An important feature of this strategy is the increasing role of Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities, where lower costs, skilled labour, and improving connectivity are supporting the emergence of new manufacturing centres. Sustained investment in infrastructure, coordinated policy implementation, and the continued development of manufacturing hubs will be critical for ensuring broad-based and resilient industrial growth in the years ahead.

India, Myanmar Hold Talks on Security, Connectivity

India and Myanmar agreed to deepen cooperation in trade, security, connectivity and technology during Myanmar President Mr. U Aung Mye Thaw's official visit to India. During this meeting with Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi, the President Myanmar discussed border security, connectivity projects, economic ties and regional issues. The two sides pledged to expedite work on the Kalanday Multi-Modal Transit Transport Project and the India-Myanmar-Thailand Trilateral Highway despite security challenges in Myanmar. India raised concerns over insurgent activities along the border, cyber scam networks and refugee movements, while Myanmar assured that its territory would not be used against India's security interests. The leaders also discussed cooperation in critical minerals, trade, energy, healthcare and emerging technologies.

India and South Africa have agreed to strengthen cooperation in Artificial Intelligence (AI), digital infrastructure and advanced manufacturing as part of a new phase of bilateral engagement. The agreement came during talks in New Delhi between Science and Technology Minister Dr. Jitendra Singh and South Africa's Deputy Minister of Science, Technology and Innovation Mr. Ntlangiso Gaba. Both sides highlighted the importance of emerging technologies, startup ecosystems and industry-linked research, stressing the need to develop affordable and scalable solutions for the Global South. Officials said the partnership aims to promote innovation-driven growth and expand joint research and technology development in the coming years.

An additional 1.53 acres has been cleared for three new Border Outposts in Malda, Nadia and Cooch Behar, while 12.72 acres in North Dinajpur has also been approved for fencing and related infrastructure at 11 locations. Govt. Announces Rs. 10,000 Crore ATF Stabilisation Package

The Centre has approved a one-time budgetary support package of Rs. 10,000 crore to stabilise Aviation Turbine Fuel (ATF) prices amid global volatility triggered by the West Asia conflict. Civil Aviation Ministry Director Mr. Rohit Raj said the measure is aimed at protecting air connectivity, ensuring stable airline operations, and shielding passengers from sharp fare increases. He clarified that the package is a temporary stabilisation mechanism, not a subsidy, and will include strict monitoring and fund recovery provisions. Raj said the initiative will help airlines manage extreme fuel price fluctuations, minimise the impact on travellers, and maintain uninterrupted connectivity.

Government Eases Tax Rules for Foreign Investors

The Government of India has granted income-tax exemption to Foreign Portfolio Investors (FPIs) on capital gains and interest income earned from investments in government securities. The move follows the promulgation of the income-tax (Amendment) Ordinance, 2026. The exemption will bring India's taxation framework for government securities in line with several comparable global markets. The benefit will apply to interest and capital gains earned by FPIs on investments in government securities on or after April 1, 2026. According to the Ministry, the measure is aimed at attracting long-term foreign investors, including pension funds, insurance companies and sovereign wealth funds, while ensuring a stable inflow of foreign capital. The government expects the reform to simplify market access, reduce operational hurdles and encourage greater participation by global investors in Indian equities and government securities.

Government to Phase out WPI, Introduce Producer Price Index

The government has decided to gradually replace the Wholesale Price Index (WPI) with a more comprehensive Producer Price Index (PPI) to modernise India's inflation and pricing data system and align it with global standards. The base year of WPI will be revised from 2011-12 to 2022-23. The index will continue to be published for five years alongside the new PPI before being phased out completely, allowing users time to transition. The move is aimed at improving accuracy in measuring price changes at the producer level and reducing reliance on wholesale pricing indicators. The revised WPI and the new PPI series are scheduled to be released on the 15th of this month. The updated index will also expand coverage from 597 to 957 items, offering a broader representation of economic activity.
