BETTER TOMORROW

As the world accelerates towards cleaner and more sustainable modes of transport, green mobility has emerged as a defining pillar of the global energy transition. The Indian Railways, often described as the lifeline of the nation - is embracing this transformation by adopting cutting-edge hydrogen fuel cell technology. A major milestone in this journey was achieved on July 17, 2026, when India's first indigenously developed hydrogen fuel cell-powered train was inaugurated and commenced operations on the Jind-Sonipat section of Northern Railway. Powered by hydrogen instead of diesel, the train generates electricity onboard through fuel cells, emitting only water vapour at the point of use. More than a technological breakthrough, it signals Indian Railways' commitment to building a cleaner, low-carbon transport ecosystem and advancing India's vision of sustainable, future-ready mobility.

The launch of the hydrogen-powered train also places India among a select group of nations-including Germany, Japan, China and the United States-that are exploring hydrogen as the next frontier in rail transportation. While hydrogen rail technology is still in its early stages globally, the initiative will provide Indian Railways with valuable operational experience in deploying, maintaining and scaling this clean-energy solution. The knowledge gained from this pioneering project is expected to pave the way for wider adoption of hydrogen-powered trains, accelerating India's transition towards a low-carbon, energy-efficient and sustainable transport ecosystem.

Inside India's First Hydrogen Train

The hydrogen train project has been developed in accordance with design approval and technical specifications prepared by the Research, Design & Standards Organisation (RDSO). Designed and developed entirely in India, the project demonstrates the vision of Atmanirbhar Bharat.

Key Features of the Train

- A 10-coach hydrogen fuel cell-powered trainset designed for eco-friendly and energy-efficient operations.

- A 1,200 kW hydrogen fuel cell propulsion system that generates electricity onboard, eliminating the need for diesel traction.
- A maximum operational speed of 75 kmph, with a design speed of 110 kmph.
- A passenger carrying capacity of approximately 2,600, making it suitable for high-density regional travel.
- Designed, engineered and developed indigenously, from concept and prototype development to manufacturing.
- The train operates on the Jind-Sonipat section of Northern Railway, connecting Jind Junction, Gohana Junction and Sonipat, while serving several intermediate stations. The route includes halts at Jind City, Pandu Pindara Junction, Lalit Khara Halt, Bhambhewa, Isapur Kheri Halt, Butana Halt, Khandrai Halt, Rabrah Halt, Lath Halt, Mohana, Barwasni Halt and Sonipat New, enhancing sustainable connectivity across the region.

Technology Behind the Train

Hydrogen fuel cell technology produces electricity through a chemical reaction using hydrogen. The primary energy source is a Proton Exchange Membrane Fuel Cell (PEMFC). This is a fuel cell that generates electricity by reacting hydrogen and oxygen across a proton-conducting Perfluorosulfonic Acid (PFSA) polymer membrane. The process produces only water vapour and heat as byproducts. Hydrogen is a high-energy fuel, 120 MJ/Kg (megajoules per kilogram) in comparison to diesel, which is 43 MJ/Kg. It is low maintenance with a manageable carbon footprint. This makes hydrogen the cleanest propulsion technology currently available for rail transport. To support this, Indian Railways has established dedicated infrastructure.

Hydrogen Infrastructure

The successful deployment of hydrogen-powered rail transportation requires a robust ecosystem for hydrogen production, storage and refuelling. To support this initiative, Indian Railways has established the country's largest railway hydrogen storage and refuelling facility at Jind, Haryana, providing the critical infrastructure required for safe and reliable hydrogen-based train operations. The indigenous facility has a hydrogen storage capacity of nearly 3,000 kg and has obtained the requisite licence from the Petroleum and Explosives Safety Organisation

(PESO) for the storage and dispensing of compressed hydrogen gas. The facility has been designed in accordance with internationally recognised safety standards, including National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 2 and the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) 19880 Series for gaseous hydrogen fuelling stations. The entire hydrogen ecosystem has also undergone an independent third-party safety assessment by TÜV SÜD, Germany, a globally recognised testing, inspection and certification organisation, reaffirming its compliance with international safety and operational standards. The hydrogen-powered train comprises two Hydrogen Driving Power Cars (DPCs) and eight Trailer Coaches (TCs). Each Hydrogen Driving Power Car is equipped with hydrogen fuel cells, Lithium Iron Phosphate (LFP) batteries and high-pressure hydrogen storage cylinders that together generate electricity to power the train. The supporting infrastructure includes a hydrogen compression system for refuelling operations, technical support facilities, critical spare components and a standby compressor to ensure uninterrupted service. Together, the train and its supporting infrastructure constitute a complete hydrogen mobility ecosystem, laying the foundation for the wider adoption of clean, safe and sustainable hydrogen-powered rail transportation across the Indian Railways network.

Ensuring Safe Operations

Indian Railways has also put in place a comprehensive operational and safety framework to ensure the safe, reliable and efficient functioning of the hydrogen-powered train. Recognising that hydrogen is a highly specialised fuel, the system incorporates multiple layers of monitoring, automation and emergency response mechanisms that oversee every stage of hydrogen production, storage, refuelling and onboard utilisation.

To ensure operational readiness, detailed Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs), regular safety audits and prescribed operational protocols have been established. A dedicated maintenance facility at Shakurbasti, Delhi, has been equipped to service the hydrogen-powered train, while trained and certified personnel have been deployed to manage critical operations. In addition, the hydrogen refuelling facility will remain under round-the-clock surveillance to ensure safe and uninterrupted operations.

Safety has been integrated into every aspect of the hydrogen mobility ecosystem. Hydrogen leak detectors and flame detection systems have been installed across the production, storage and dispensing facilities for continuous monitoring, while all safety sensors are subject to regular inspection and maintenance. The train is equipped with a continuous ventilation system to prevent the accumulation of hydrogen gas, and an automated safety mechanism that immediately isolates the hydrogen supply if abnormal conditions such as excessive heat, flame or smoke are detected. The Loco Pilot's cab features a dedicated emergency operating mode that enables the train to be moved to a safe location, while a real-time monitoring interface continuously displays the health and status of critical onboard systems. Comprehensive inspection and preventive maintenance schedules further strengthen the operational safety of India's first hydrogen-powered train, ensuring that the new technology meets the highest standards of reliability and passenger safety.

Towards Sustainable Rail Mobility

The hydrogen-powered train marks the beginning of a new chapter in India's journey towards sustainable rail transportation. Beyond demonstrating a breakthrough in indigenous technology, it creates the ecosystem, technical expertise and institutional capacity required to support the future adoption of hydrogen-powered mobility across the rail network. By validating critical technologies, operational protocols and safety systems under real-world conditions, the project lays the groundwork for scaling clean-energy solutions in one of the world's largest railway systems. As Indian Railways advances its decarbonisation agenda, this pioneering initiative reinforces the objectives of the National Green Hydrogen Mission and India's commitment to achieving net-zero emissions. More importantly, it reflects a broader vision of transforming the railways into a cleaner, greener and future-ready mode of transport - one that not only reduces environmental impact but also drives innovation, energy security and sustainable economic growth for generations to come.
